Suggestions From Those Interested in The Moody and Sankey Memorial For North- field Are Commencing To Come In

CAMPAIGN TO RAISE THREE MILLIONS

Formal Opening of Work Friday Night at The Northfield

A national campaign to raise $3,000,000 for carrying on the great work started by the late Dwight L. Moody, founder of The Northfield Schools, which is to cover practically all of the United States, had its formal opening in the banquet hall of the Northfield hotel Friday night, when 20 men and women from Franklin, Cheshire and Windham counties heartily endorsed the undertaking, which is to be under the general charge of A. D. McKee of Northfield.

President Elliot Speer of the Northfield Schools, East Northfield, Mass., at a conference urged a greater co-operation on the part of the public-spirited citizens for the maintenance of the work in behalf of earnest, purposeful youth. He stated that in the Northfield schools there are 1,147 students—595 girls in the seminary and 552 boys in Mt. Hermon—all of great potential influence and service when rightly trained, to the home, office and community. From the graduates come many expressions of love and loyalty and these tokens are a source of encouragement to the faculty and trustees.

Ambert G. Moody, general chairman of the tri-county campaign, in a talk recently mentioned the value of the Northfield Schools in the immediate vicinity. The budget of the Northfield Schools last year exceeded $880,000, of which a considerable portion was spent in the home counties. From the visitors, who come to see their boys and girls, there is annually received by the community around $125,000. Mr. Moody also said, "I feel confident that our people will respond to this appeal for their school."

Regular Meeting of the Fortnightly Last Friday

The regular meeting of the Fortnightly was held in Alexander hall Friday afternoon, Nov. 8, Mrs. C. H. Webster presiding. A committee of community service was appointed: Mrs. Mantogue, chairman; Mrs. Charles Johnson, Miss Mary Dalton, Mrs. Bufum and Mrs. Arthur Lyman. Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Tyler were elected to membership in the club.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Charlotte Dustan of Winchester, who gave a most entertaining lecture on her personal experiences in Russia and the Near East during and after the Great War. Mrs. Dustan wore a beautiful costume of blue brocade, with a large shaped cap, richly decorated with pearls and sapphires. This costume is the dress worn by unmarried women in Russia who are in the upper class. Mrs. William Tilton of Boston, chairman of the committee against repeal of our State prohibition, gave a brilliant and effective talk on the work to be done for that cause. She outlined the program of organization and a committee was appointed. Mrs. W. R. Moody, chairman, which will arrange for the program to be carried out. Miss Vera Wright sang a solo from Rubinstein.

Engagement of Florence Madeline Jones Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edward Roberts of Braintree announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence Madeline, to Walter Stanley Jones.

Miss Roberts graduated from the Braintree high school and also from Chandler Secretarial and Normal school, Boston. She taught for two years at Vermont Academy and is now teaching in LaSalle Seminary, Boston.

Mr. Jones is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Jones of Northfield Seminary. Walter Stanley Jones graduated from Mt. Hermon in the class of '22 and from Brown University with the class of '28, where he made an excellent record, winning his Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi keys, and also making his letter in athletics. He was a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity. For two years he was head of the science department at Vermont Academy. He is a student at Harvard Medical School. His medical fraternity is Phi Beta Pi.

Mrs. Arthur Hewitt Died at Her Home in Spofford, N. H.

Mrs. Arthur Hewitt, formerly a resident of this town, died at her home in Spofford, N. H., last week Tuesday, in the 40th year of her age. She leaves her husband and a son, Kenneth. As a young woman, she lived here in the homes of Mrs. H. A. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Whitmore. She married Arthur Howe and they lived in Mr. Reed's cottage for some time, and Mr. Hewitt was employed in Mr. Reed's mill. Later they moved to Winchester street and he was employed at the Northfield Seminary. While living there they lost three daughters with scarlet fever within a few weeks. Mrs. Hewitt is pleasantly remembered by friends here. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Reed attended the funeral on Friday at Spofford.

Mr. Fitt's Suggestion

To the Editor, Northfield Press:

For years I have been keenly interested in the subject discussed in your editorial of last week: a township memorial of D. L. Moody. Remember that I came in from the outside attracted by the goodness and greatness of this man who had achieved such wonderful and enduring triumphs in Great Britain and Ireland. In the old countries they erect public statues of their great men and women, so it came naturally to me to dream of a statue of D. L. Moody in this town.

Hereabouts you hear of D. L. Moody spoken of as an educator. Now that is not what gave him his reputation and influence. His schools are only a by-product. He is known the world around and lives today in the hearts of myriads of men and women as an evangelist. Speaking for myself, I would never have dropped my profession and left my native land at the call of any American educator; but when I realized that the call of D. L. Moody was the call of God into Christian service, I willingly answered, and have never regretted my association with him. It is because D. L. Moody was an evangelist, first, last and all the time, that the name of Northfield became known all over the world as the most significant religious center in Protestant Christendom.

And that dictates the style of statue I have dreamt of. In fact, I could show you a picture of it. The drawing was made by a newspaper artist in Chicago from life. It pictures Mr. Moody preaching—right arm extended high, Bible in left hand—a true depiction as we knew him.

I should like to live and see a heroic, life-size bronze statue, mounted on a granite base quarried from these Northfield hills he loved, located on some public site in town. Suppose it be placed in front of the high school, say, where every passerby would be arrested by it. It would be an inspiration and a challenge to us all, young and old. Northfield would get glory as tourists realized that this was the birthplace of the world's greatest evangelist since New Testament times. True, the schools are a monument to him, but they are not personal. I believe there are enough people still living who knew, believed in, loved and were blessed under D. L. Moody to provide the means for a worthy monument such as I speak of.

There ought to be some permanent record left in the town of the approaching tercentenary of Massachusetts Bay Colony. Would it not be agreeable to adopt as a project such a statue of Northfield's most famous citizen, who was born here, lived here, died here, and was buried here, and the fruitage of whose life still abides in the conferences and schools. Yours truly, A. P. FITT.

What Smith College Thinks of "Hamlet" With Ben Greet

"Hamlet" in modern dress never was half so exciting to the audience as the "Hamlet" in costume presented by the Ben Greet Players at the Little theatre of Smith College. For this was a play of swift incident rather than a psychological study.

The players gave a masterly presentation of this story of tragedy and revenge, and keyed the audience into a constant tension. It is hard to single out the superlative performance, though naturally Hamlet, played by Russell Hornbake, and Ben Greet himself in the dual role of Polonius and the first grave digger, were the outstanding figures.

Miss Thea Holme as Ophelia combined a native quality with deep pathos. She delicately avoided over-playing difficult scenes, which she made truly effective. In the same way, Kynaston Reedes, as the wicked King Claudius, gave a most convincing characterization of the heartless villain, without the customary ranting.

The stage indicates the simplicity of the theatre of Shakespeare's time and the play was acted in a manner like unto that of the Elizabethan period. This made for smooth and rapid succession of scenes which were enhanced by skillful lighting effects.

In presenting "Hamlet," Mr. Greet is giving America its first experience of this great tragedy as it originally was written in 1603, the first folio being used. "Hamlet," as it is generally known from the second quarto, was written a year after the first version, and being twice its length, it usually cut for presentation.

Y. P. B. of the W. C. T. U.

The Young People's branch of the W. C. T. U. held its regular meeting and election of officers Wednesday evening at P. W. E. Hart's. The officers elected were: President, Dorothy Newton; vice-president, Elsie Havercroft; secretary, Erma Stebbins; treasurer, Everett Danforth; corresponding secretary, Flora Fisher; publicity, Marion Wells; entertainment, Evelyn Havercroft and Lyman Moore. There were 29 present and after the business meeting there were games, music, dancing and light refreshments.

ARMISTICE DAY IN NORTHFIELD

Under Direction of Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, Program Carried Out in Every Detail

The Armistice Day exercises, under the charge of Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, went over in accordance with plan.

At 11:00 a. m., there was a minute of silence, in memory of the eventful hour 10 years ago.

At 2:30 p. m. the parade took place, headed by the Orange Legion drum corps, marshaled by Lieut. Steadler on horseback, with the Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, the veterans of the several wars, patriotic and uniformed organizations, citizens and school children.

Upon the return of the parade to the Town hall, a tablet in honor of the citizens of Northfield who served in the World War was unveiled by Mrs. Mary Spencer, mother of Haven H. Spencer, in whose honor the post was named. Dr. Richard Holton made a brief address, to which Mr. Montague, chairman of the Selectmen, responded. The salute to the dead was then given by the firing squad and the bugle sounding "Taps."

After the parade, the regular Armistice Day exercises were held in the hall. Prof. Frank L. Duley of the Northfield schools delivered the principal address, a masterly epitome of the whole course of events in the World War, from 1914 right up to the signing of the armistice. Mr. A. P. Fitt read a poem by Edwin Markham, especially written for the occasion.

At 6 o'clock p. m. a dinner was served in the Town hall by the Legion auxiliary, of which a goodly crowd availed themselves.

Mr. Finch had a most interesting display of war relics in the Legion room and here Alonzo Wheeler, the only survivor of the G. A. R. in Northfield, as well as H. D. Hunt, veteran of the Spanish-American War, held a reception and furnished a mine of reminiscences and entertainment to the crowds of visitors.

At 8 p. m., Goodnow's orchestra gave a delightful and appropriate concert program, proving the organization to be a versatile and accomplished one.

From 9 p. m. till 1 a. m., the Armistice ball was in full swing and the auditorium was crowded to capacity with the dancers. There were square as well as round dances, and prizes in the way of war relics were given to lucky members. Goodnow's Bling Orchestra furnished its usual splendid program of dance music.

Law Enforcement Campaign Is Now to Be Organized

On Monday evening, Nov. 18, at the invitation of Mrs. W. R. Moody, a representative from every organization has been asked to meet at her home to make plans for a law enforcement campaign. This action has grown out of the talk which Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton gave at the last meeting of the Fortnightly. She is an official of the State Federation of Women's Clubs on Law Enforcement. The campaign is specially against the proposed referendum in relation to the repeal of the 18th amendment.

AIRPORTS ARE THE COMING THING

Northfield's Unique Field is At- tracting Attention Through- out Aviation Circles

One of the most encouraging factors in the development of aviation in this country is the rapidly with which airports are being planned and constructed, according to Cram's Aeronautical Reports, a Detroit economic service.

Regardless of the airport problems of the large cities, the smaller municipalities do not face the same situations. There is usually land available within corporate limits, either privately or publicly owned. Private individuals in small cities have been most generous in deeding extensive holdings for airport purposes, and in the matter of locations, these areas are usually very advantageous.

A practice merely designating some pasture of meadow land as an airport is no longer being followed in these smaller cities. Development is instigated either by local civic bodies or by private individuals, and where bonds are offered they are of a municipal category. Construction details follow the latest Department of Commerce regulations, and the resulting fields are often as well equipped as those in much larger localities.

The chain of airports being developed throughout the country by one large company promises to become the centers of aeronautical activity wherever they are located. These airports are more than mere landing fields, and facilities are provided for the sale and repair of ships and engines, as well as for the instruction of students and the convenience of passengers and visitors. Naturally the scale upon which the organization operates is neither necessary or possible for the average airport, which has for its primary purpose the development of a cleared area constructed for the safe landing of planes.

With Government and private agencies alike engaged in lighting airway routes and providing radio communication, night flying may become as common as daylight operations. If this condition does come about, one of the largest contributing factors will be the knowledge that well built and lighted airports are nearly everywhere available. The risk of forced landings, a pilot's greatest menace, will be greatly reduced.

Perhaps the most important result of the widespread development of airports to the manufacturers way of thinking is the increased volume of sales it should bring about. This will largely be due to the "era of private flying" that should come about shortly. Planes have arrived at such a point of safety, instruction is of the best, and now bases of operation are in no way limited. Each city with its airport bids fair to make next season a "year of private flying."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Fuller of Framingham spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. F. B. Caldwell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis and five children of Greenfield were guests of L. R. Alexander and family for Armistice Day. The Lewis family were former residents of Highland avenue here.

Getting Ready For Our Share In The Tercentenary Celebration of the Founding Of the Massachusetts Bay Colony

COMMUNITY SHOCKED BY SUDDEN DEATH

Mrs. Fred Newton Passes Away After Operation That Was Thought to be Satisfactory

The community was greatly shocked and grieved to hear of the death of Mrs. Fred Newton Tuesday morning. She worked as usual at the Northfield Seminary laundry all last week, where her husband is also employed. Sunday she went to Franklin County hospital and underwent an operation on Monday, and seemed to rally satisfactorily when her husband visited her Monday evening. She passed away suddenly at 5:30 a. m. Tuesday. Her maiden name was Jennie Bennett and she came to Northfield nearly 20 years ago. For 17 years she held a position at the laundry, where she made herself beloved by her co-workers. After her marriage to Fred Newton, they made their home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Newton of Wanamaker street. She leaves one son, Stanley, a pupil at the East Northfield grammar school; her mother, Mrs. Nellie Bennett, who lives with Mrs. Newton's sister, Mrs. Ora Thornton, in South Hadley; also three brothers, Albert, Ernest and Leon Bennett of Springfield. The family is associated with the Congregational church, and Rev. F. W. Pattison will officiate at the funeral at 2 p. m. today (Friday) at her late home. Interment will be in the Barber district cemetery. Mrs. Newton was a valued member of Northfield Chapter of Eastern Star. The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

"LET THERE BE NO MORE BATTLE"

Edwin Markham, America's poet laureate, commemorated Armistice Day, 1929, with "Let There Be No More Battles," a poem reminiscent of his world-famous masterpiece, "The Man With the Hoe." The poem, a strong plea for world peace, was written exclusively for the Christian Herald, non-denominational religious weekly magazine. It reads:

Yes, we would honor our heroic dead,
Would lay a wreath on each heroic head,
They all have perished for their dream
of truth,
Died with the dare of youth.

They are not dead! Life's flag is never furling;
They are passed on lightly, world to world.

Their bodies sleep, but in that better land
Their spirits march under a new command.

But there is something nobler yet,—to live,
Live gallantly, to give and to forgive.
Yes, there is something nobler than
To make our country worth our dying for,—

To lay the beams of Justice on the earth,
And call the Brother Future into birth.

This is a day that is dear,
A day when God is near,
The day when the battles ended for a space.

Let it become the conscience of the race!

O sons of time and tears,
The skies are weary of those screaming shells.

The fields are weary of these battle hells!
Send a new vision on the coming years!

Set this great day as a holy day
apart
For dreams of peace, the wisdom of the heart!

Yes, let this day, omen of earth, become
The dawn-rise of a new millennium!

O friends of Christ, this is our dream!
For we Must strive on toward the brotherhood to be,—

Toward that great hour of God's ascending sun
When all shall love and all shall lift as one!

The Mother's Society

Mrs. Clarence Steadler entertained the Mother's Society Wednesday afternoon, with 17 mothers and four babies present. Mrs. Fred Huber cared for the small children at her home during the meeting. Mrs. F. W. Pattison, who is president of the society this year, spoke on Parenthood, a Skilled Vocation. This was from the second chapter of Thomas Galloway's book, Parenthood and Character Training for Children. Mrs. Steadler and the social committee served ice cream and cookies.

Alfred Holton secured one of the finest deer in many a season on Monday in Vernon, Vt., where the law is now off. It was a ten-point buck, weighing 275 pounds. Many have found it worth while to go and see this deer.

The town committee met in the Town hall last Tuesday evening. Among the decisions made were to arrange for a public meeting in the Town hall at an early date, with an historical address and pictures; to celebrate on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 29 and 30, 1930, with various features to be announced later; to issue invitations to namesake towns in other States to send representatives to share in our celebration as "the first Northfield in America"; to reproduce the original settlement, or if this is not feasible, a stretch of an old stockade or a log fort; to prepare a loan exhibit in the Dickinson hall, comprising furniture, implements, costumes, china and ironware, curios and other objects of years ago; to request the library trustees to arrange a special collection of books, pictures and documents of the period; to plan for tours by auto and hiking, led by authorized guides, to points of historic interest in the vicinity, such as the sites of Indian villages, King Philip's tree and trenches, the council sand dunes, etc. and for similar tours to points of scenic interest, such as Garnet Rock, the birthplace and grave of D. L. Moody, etc.

Miss Mary Dalton was requested to confer with the school authorities in references to courses of reading and study on the period during the winter and spring, lectures and pictures, plays and pageants, all in order to interest and instruct the school children on the history of our State and town. Invitations will also be sent to all the churches, clubs, fraternal organizations and other groups in town to feature the tercentenary in appropriate ways in their winter programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbert will work on a descriptive folder of Northfield, to place in the hands of tourists and visitors. A request will be sent to the Village Improvement Society to erect sign boards at the town line on all the highways with legends such as, "Welcome to Northfield"; also markers at historic sites, like the Indian village of Natanis, and to repaint the inscriptions on the existing historical monuments. A map showing all the points of interest in this township, a clean up and paint up campaign, a beautiful Main street campaign, a series of literary papers, are among the other projects on the docket.

This is a town affair and Northfield must not lag behind other towns in this Statewide celebration. We have got more Indian tradition and history than any other town in America. Citizens are asked to co-operate in every way they can by contributing biographical and historical matter about famous men and women and institutions in the past history of our town. Ideas and suggestions will be welcomed at all times by the committee, and may be sent to Dr. Florence Colton, clerk.

Sherlock Holmes at the Garden Theatre

Sherlock Holmes is perhaps the foremost exponent of disguises that fiction has ever known. As the uncanny sleuth who could always guess at least one step ahead of the other fellow, his ability to wear a wig in such a fashion that even the trusty Watson was unable to identify him, stood him in good stead whenever danger threatened.

Clive Brook, who plays the title role in Paramount's all-talking screen play, "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," at the Garden theatre, made a study of wigs and in the picture designed the two disguises that he affects. In one of the sequences, Holmes disguises himself as a "boots" or steward on board a trans-Atlantic liner. With his full make-up on, his identity is completely hidden and in its place there is a typical English Whitehall character, plastered over his own hair is a dark brown wig with slight traces of gray, parted on the left side. On the right side his hair is curled up, not unlike ye old-time bartender. His eyebrows are bushy and also dark brown. To complete his facial disguise, he wears a light brown flowing mustache. A steward's white jacket puts the finishing touch to the character.

Next Meeting of Grange on Monday, the 25th

The next meeting of the Northfield Grange will be held on Monday, Nov. 25, and the election of officers will take place at this meeting. This change in date from the usual time is made so as not to interfere with the date of giving of the high school play.

The Berean class is holding its annual meeting with its president, Mrs. F. A. Holton, this (Friday) afternoon. The Friendly class meets with Mrs. Joseph Ross next Monday evening. The Brotherhood will have their monthly supper next Tuesday evening, followed by a travelogue by Richard L. Watson of Mt. Hermon.

A Deer Accident That Might Have Been Dearer

Miss Maude Radway and Mrs. H. V. Martineau had a narrow escape from what might have been a serious accident last Thursday evening. When coming home from Montague, Mass., after spending the evening with relatives, they reached Lower Northfield Farms, a beautiful deer was feeding beside the road unconcerned about traffic. When they were opposite the deer he plunged directly in front of their car, with a crash. The headlights were broken off, the glass was shattered all around, the fender bent against the wheel, and the car left the road for about its length before it could be stopped, but no other damage was done, except to the deer, as he took to the brush with a decided limp. A passing car gave them assistance and Miss Radway and Mrs. Martineau were very thankful they escaped injury.

Dick Steinbruggen shot a 200-pound buck Tuesday.

Samuel Bacon and daughter, Katherine, of Rutland, Vt., were guests of Mrs. H. V. Martineau last week.

Week-day church school at the South school will be at 3:30 p. m. next Friday, following the school session.

Mrs. Wallace, who lives at the Vernon Home, and has been sick for several weeks, has gone to the Melrose hospital in West Brattleboro, Vt., for treatment.

Mrs. E. L. Spiller is in West Brattleboro, Vt., caring for Mrs. H. M. Yerrington's patients at the Convalescent Home while Mrs. Yerrington is away for a few days' vacation.

The services next Sunday at the A. C. church will be as usual. Sermon by the pastor, Rev. George W. Tyler, at 10:45 a. m., church school at 12:05, p. m., evening service at 7 p. m., mid-week prayer meeting at the Vernon Home Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

About 30 of their schoolmates of District No. 3 and friends in their vicinity met at the home of Mrs. Gladys Edson of Northfield Farms on Saturday, Nov. 9, in honor of the occasion of the ninth birthday anniversary of her twins, Arnold and Alden Edson. Miss Gladys Edson of South Vernon, Vt., attended the party and spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Gladys Edson, and cousins.

AID FOR VETERANS IS RED CROSS PLEDGE

Service and Ex-Service Men Are Helped in All Problems.

Service to World War veterans in hospital, for able-bodied veterans, and for dependent families of both called for expenditures of $738,000 by the American Red Cross during the year just ended. In addition, Red Cross Chapters spent $1,983,000 in veteran relief, and also for men still in service.

Although eleven years have passed since the Armistice, there remain 25,500 disabled and sick veterans of the World War in hospitals, and the peak of the number who will require hospitalization is not expected by Veterans Bureau authorities to be reached until 1947. For these men, the Red Cross must continue its service of providing recreation and comforts, according to James L. Flesher, vice chairman of the Red Cross.

"Under its Charter from Congress, the Red Cross is required to maintain service for veterans of wars and for the men still in the service," Mr. Flesher said. "The funds for this work come from the annual roll call membership fees. In addition to the sum spent in maintaining contact with the veterans, the Red Cross expended $308,000 in its service to the men still in the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The society and a majority of its 3,500 chapters handle claims for these men for insurance, compensation and other benefits they are entitled to under the law, and also where necessary arrange to provide for dependents of the men."

"Red Cross workers are maintained in forty-eight Veterans Bureau Hospitals, as well as in all regular Army and Navy hospitals, whose duty it is to supervise recreational facilities for the patients, and to provide all comforts. In the Army and Navy Hospitals, the workers also do social service for the patients. These tasks also are performed at all Army Posts and Navy Ports by Red Cross workers, and in addition Red Cross representatives to handle claims are established at the majority of Veterans Bureau regions' offices."

Mr. Flesher urged that all citizens enroll in the Roll Call, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28, in order to aid in supporting this work.

The Sophomore football team gave a banquet at the Hotel Northfield last Saturday night to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Platt. The affair had been so carefully planned that it was, until the last moment, a complete surprise to Mr. Platt, who has acted as coach of this team for two seasons, and who was presented a $10 gold piece on this occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt had as guests over the week-end Mrs. Platt's sister, Miss Anna Wardinski, Miss Janice Hartt and Lynn Roberts, all of Hartford, Conn., who were also guests at the banquet. There were about 20 boys in the party.

Final Five-Mile Run Comes on Monday

The four-mile cross country run took place last Thursday, the 7th, when a field of 40 men ran. G. Gordon Kelley of Hartford, Conn., a Senior, won, coming in four seconds ahead of Irwin Lynch; Sherwood Reed, third; Alvin S. Porter, fourth; Tabor W. Polhemus, fifth. Kelley and Lynch also came in first and second in the two mile run two weeks before. Bliss, who came in third in the earlier run, was unable to enter this week. The final five-mile run will come off Monday morning, Nov. 18. It will bring out a much larger number of men, now that the series of soccer and football games are finished.

Monday Was Closing Day For Soccer and Football

Monday was the closing day of the inter-class series of soccer and football. In soccer, although the Juniors lost the morning's game to their rivals, the Seniors, by a score of 4-1, the Junior team was the victor for the series. The Junior class girls from the Seminary, who came to dinner, arrived in time to join in the cheering. The Senior class girls arrived in time for the football games called at 2 p. m. The Senior team won the series by a victory of 18-3 over the Juniors. The Sophomores were victors over the Freshmen. Hot dogs served on the field from a tent in front of the gym were an unusual feature of the day. The Juniors served coffee and doughnuts to their guests before they left Northfield; the Senior girls stayed to supper and enjoyed a short program afterwards.

Miss Helen Hastings of Middletown, Conn., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Hatch on Friday and over the week-end. Miss Hastings was given a supper party at the home of Mrs. McMillan Saturday night.

The Dwight's Home committee held a sale of homemade cake at Camp hall Saturday afternoon. The profits from the sale and from the moving pictures in the evening will be used by the committee to supplement the regular finances of Dwight's Home, the school infirmary.

Mrs. House of Beebe Plain, Vt., motored down from that town Saturday with friends to spend the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Wyman, at Dwight's Home, and to visit her niece, Mrs. Wyman's daughter at Northfield Seminary, and her nephew, Arthur Beane, of Cambridge, a student at Mt. Hermon.

Among recent visitors at the Hill are: Mrs. William S. Yeager, who called on friends early in the week; Miss Dorothy Watson of the Walnut Hill school, who spent Sunday at her parents' home; George G. Rodgers of Worcester, who has a son and nephew in school here; Miss Julie Mary Stark, now attending Northfield Seminary, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hatch; George R. Lawrence, '22, and M. Moran, both teachers at Lawrence Academy, Groton, Mass.; Howard A. Harris and family of Providence, visiting their son, Howard, Jr.; Rev. and Mrs. Harvey M. Eastman, '06, with a small son and daughter, and Mrs. H. Wilkes of Slaterville, R. I.; Miss Hannen's sister and friends.

The Sunday evening chapel service on the 10th was prefaced by an organ recital by Ernest L. Mahaffey, a former student at Mt. Hermon, now in charge of the New York city sales promotion department of the Estey Organ company. He played the Concert Overture by Rogers, Marche Funebre and Chanson Seraphique by Gullmunt; Evening Bells and Cradle Song by Macfarlane, and a number by Molli-neaux, the English composer. The ceremony was by Rev. Harold B. Camp of the Calvary Baptist church, New Haven, Conn.

Northfield Farms

Roger Billings' police dog, Boots, was killed by an auto.

All schools in town were closed for the celebration of Armistice day.

Henry Towne and family of Moore's Corner were visitors at Harry Glazier's Sunday.

Quite a number of boys here are doing some trapping this fall, mostly for muskrats.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark and family of Baldwinville spent Sunday and Monday with Mrs. Eva Stacy. Mrs. Stacy accompanied them home Monday for a few days' visit.

In Leisure Moments

It is never extravagant to buy good, expensive table linen, as every dollar added to the cost adds to the length of time it will give service; and when hemming a tablecloth, the ravelings should be wound into a ball and saved for darning the linen, and if the household linen is examined once a week and the leisure moments devoted to mending and darning the pieces, they will not only look better but will last twice as long. Sheets and pillow cases are still called bed linen from custom, though all are most likely of cotton. The worn tablecloths can have the best part cut into squares and oblongs and hemmed to serve as dollies and tray cloths, and these may be hemstitched or neatly hemmed by hand, and the worst worn-out damask and linen are invaluable in case of illness or for wounds. These should first be boiled in water to which has been added one tablespoon of borax to each quart of water. Dry and either cut or tear into strips of different widths which should be wound into balls, and you will then be prepared for an emergency, as the borax renders them antiseptically clean. If it is necessary to spend the leisure hour in cleaning a soiled vest or pair of pants, shake and brush them very thoroughly, and for all-around cleansing from light-weight fabrics up to heavy cloths, nothing is so satisfactory as a lather of soap-tree bark, and if the article is only slightly soiled, it can be cleaned by sponging on the right side, but if very soiled, it should be cleaned by washing in the suds. You will have more leisure moments if, in the care of the kitchen, you use borax freely in the water when washing. The biscuit board, rolling pin and the dish towels and dish cloths, and the latter will be kept soft and white for a long time by the use of borax. Careful planning and the stitch taken in time will afford more leisure moments for the busy housewife.

Friends Might Send Mrs. Pratt Birthday Cake

Mrs. P. B. Pratt of Greenfield spent Saturday afternoon with her granddaughter, Mrs. Myron Barber. Mrs. Pratt will be 93 years old her next birthday, which comes the 24th of this month. Mrs. Barber wishes anyone who knows her to send her a card on her birthday, her address being 21 Pleasant street, Greenfield.

The Young People's Fraternity

The Young People's Fraternity of the Unitarian church has chosen Nov. 29 as the day to present in Bernardston Town hall the three-act comedy, "A Little Clodhopper," by Walter Ben Hare. The cast of characters is as follows: Stepinus Green, John Morton; Cecy Gump, Fayette Whithead; George Chiggerson, Leslie Martin; Mrs. Chiggerson Boggs, Gladys Woodard; Miss Julietta Bean, Marion Martin; Chairman Carter, Eva Whitaker; Judy, O. Guessoo. Announcements will appear later.

Parmenter—Bester

Announcement has been received of the marriage of Miss Lillian Elizabeth Parmenter of Rochester, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parmenter, to H. Clay Bester, son of Mrs. Henry M. Bester of the same place. The bride was attired in a gown of blue transparent velvet with slippers and hat to match, and wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Helen M. Parmenter, who wore brown transparent velvet, with hat to match, and a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses. Mrs. Bester is a granddaughter of George M. Parmenter and a niece of Mrs. Arthur Nelson of this town.

Henry Root and Morton Whithead left Sunday by automobile for a two weeks' trip to Topeka, Kansas.

Fred Dummell of Stowe has purchased the Corbett place on Depot street and will move here soon.

Sam Truesdell is in the Franklin County hospital, where he was operated upon Thursday for appendicitis.

Miss Grace Blodgett returned to the North Adams Normal school Monday after spending a few days at her father's, E. C. Blodgett.

Walter Fairman, a teacher in the high school at Amherst, spent the holiday at his cousin's, Mrs. Leon Burrows.

Miss Marion Emerson of Smith college, formerly of this town, has recently been chosen as a member of the Glee club. Miss Emerson's mother,

What Your Contour Tells

By DORIS HALE
DuBarry Beauty Consultant

SOMEONE once called the line of the jaw from chin to ear "the line of youth". It is a contour that all of us should try to keep firm, for a heavy, sagging jaw line is a mark of age; and this contour can be kept smooth and firm by stimulating the relaxed muscles with a few simple upward movements with the "heel" of the hand.

The lovely thing about my pet theory, too, is the fact that while you are gently lifting the contour you are at the same time using preparations that will keep the skin soft and fine. So, first, cleanse the face thoroughly. Then smooth a generous quantity of tissue cream all along the jaws, down on the neck and up on the cheeks. It's my idea that good tissue creams should liquefy under the combined heat of the hands and skin just enough to release the pure oils of their composition. If your skin is unusually dry, try a skin food that aids natural lubrication, stimulates the oil glands and tones the circulation.

Now, put into the palm of each hand, and on the palm cushion, or "heel" of the hand, some rich, stimulating muscle oil. Catch the jaw line smartly on either side of the chin with the strong palm cushions. Move the hands upward, smoothing the sagging muscles of the fatty tissues over the bony jaw line.

Repeat rhythmically, till you feel the warm, tingling sensation so typical of these tissue-firming treatments. Do not bruise the tissues, of course, but let that strong palm cushion, well lubricated with muscle oil, coax the reluctant contours back to normal loveliness. This natural lifting and stimulating of the flabby tissues will gradually restore firmness.

Do these treatments before your mirror. In this way you will see both hands working together. Of course, make yourself perfectly comfortable — wear something loose and light. Pin a towel around your head, turban fashion, to keep the hair away from the face.

All these treatments are simple enough to be performed at home, and by following my directions I am sure you will have good results with your own two hands.

Belado-Crowley Post Carries on With Armistice Day Exercises

A most interesting Armistice day program was carried out in Red Men's hall Monday evening under the direction of the Belado-Crowley Post of the American Legion, with other organizations of the village co-operating. Addresses were made by Col. A. H. Pierce, medical officer in charge of the U. S. Veterans' hospital at Northampton; Rev. P. E. Carey, pastor of St. John's church; Rev. C. G. White, pastor of the Congregational church, and Rev. L. A. Radzik, curate of St. John's church. Music was furnished by an orchestra led by L. A. Beams of Turners Falls. A musical specialty was presented by W. R. Prouty, Raymond Avison and Orville Prouty. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of R. J. Collins, Harold Cuff and Rev. C. G. White, all members of the Legion post.

Perfect Attendance at the Erving Side Grade School

The following pupils of Erving side graded school have had a perfect attendance since school began in the fall: John Coogan, William Clossom, Cecelia Glazek, Marion Glazek, Jean Jarry, Patricia Powers, Helen Radle, Doris Traversari, Eleanor Herzog, Alice McCarthy, James Betters, Edward Dorsey, George Felton, William Grogan, Carl Lambert, "Teddy" Gloski, Arthur LaMountain, Glenna Beck, Rosemary Carroll, Doris Merriott, Sophie Yez, Josephine Albright, Flora Felton, Viola Gloski, Ethel Phelps, Bernice Rushford, Chester Gloski, Norman Herzog, Russell Smith, Agnes Baker, Lois Thompson, Robert Betters, John Kopec, Cedric Rushford, Joseph Wejthowski, Rita Coogan, Yonnie Paski, Harold Crouse, Charles Gloski, Richard Seyfert, Joseph Albright, Alvin Baker, Stanley Kopec, Evelyn Rushford, Elizabeth Smith, Rudolph Chudzik, Chester Kobinski, Alex Litkeski, Charlotte Scragg, Walter Sokoloski, Ernest Thompson and John Yez.

Allen Smith's Injury

Allen Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith of Pleasant street, met with a painful thought, not serious injury Saturday afternoon. Young Smith, in company with a number of boys, had been up to the camp of Lawrence Comins on Mt. Jerusalem, and were returning home the shortest way, which was over the cliffs. When about a third of the way down, the lad slipped and fell a distance of about 20 feet upon some jagged rocks. The outcries of his companions brought Lawrence Comins and Robert Dauphinais to the scene, and they carried the injured lad the rest of the way down the mountain to the Comins home, where first aid was rendered. The boy was then taken to the office of Dr. William J. Madsen for surgical treatment. The doctor found that the lad had a wound on the head that necessitated several stitches and that he was somewhat bruised about the body.

Installation of Officers in Legion Post and Auxiliary

The newly-elected officers of the Belado-Crowley Post of the American Legion will be installed on the evening of Nov. 19. The installing officer will be John F. Donaghy, president of the Franklin-Hampshire Council. The ladies' auxiliary have been invited to attend the ceremonies. At the close of the meeting, refreshments will be served by the entertainment committee. The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its installation on the evening of Nov. 22. The installing officer will be Mrs. Dorothy Stoughton of Turners Falls. She will be assisted by Mrs. L. C. Couto of the same town. After the exercises, lunch will be served.

A Five Minute Make-Up

By DORIS HALE
DuBarry Beauty Consultant

THIS is a dreadfully busy world. Most of us feel that we lack the leisure to give either face or figure the treatment necessary to retain the bloom of youth. I have always hesitated to suggest quick measures for retarding or restoring beauty. Since time gives us our wrinkles, it is not unreasonable to suppose that time and effort may be required to remove them.

However, there are many occasions when a woman can, with the aid of reliable skin preparations, work a real transformation in her appearance by five minutes application of her own hands.

You come, perhaps, to the end of a day, all hot, tired and dusty. That party your friends have arranged cannot be evaded; and by the time you have raced upstairs and changed your frock, you haven't time left for anything but a dab of powder. A bath is out of the question.

Now, the most essential requirement

Mrs. Charles Lynds of Gunn street is visiting relatives in Phillipston. Mrs. Alvin Scott of Northfield Farms is visiting friends and relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. James Crowley had for holiday guests Mr. and Mrs. William Firth of Springfield.

Edward Vener of Boston University is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vener of Newton street.

Miss Annie Carroll of Springfield spent the week-end with her father, Sheriff M. W. Carroll of Pratt street.

Miss Melinda Merriott of Putney, Vt., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Merriott, of Central street.

Mrs. Whitfield Morrett of Crescent street was suddenly called to Troy, N. Y., on account of the death of her father.

Charles T. Bartlett of Millers Falls has been appointed as deputy great sachem of Red Men in Massachusetts. He is past sachem of Samoset tribe of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. George Felton, who for the past two years have had apartments in the old hotel block, moved yesterday into the Gosselin house on Prospect street.

Brattleboro, Vt.

Richard B. Putnam, driver for Swift & Co., returned from a deer hunting trip and reported that while in Dover a bullet from the rifle of another hunter passed through the side of Putnam's trousers, but without injuring him.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, which a week ago celebrated its first anniversary, launched a plan to "demilitarize" the Molly Stark trail. A warlike aspect has been given sections of the highway by tossing of large metal cans used in highway work down the slopes of the roadsides. Their circular apertures make them look like mortars. These big cans the Chamber of Commerce purposes to have removed.

Conway

Invitations have been received here announcing the marriage of Sidney Wing Parsons to Miss Elizabeth Green, to take place at the First Congregational church at Amherst at 4 o'clock Saturday, Nov. 23. A reception will be held in the chapel. After a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons will make their home on Prospect street, Greenfield.

The Armistice Day celebration began with a salute at sunrise. A parade formed at 10:30 a. m. to march to the cemetery, including the American Legion Drum Corps of Greenfield, World War Veterans, Grand Army, Sons of Veterans, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts. At noon a chicken pie dinner was served. On account of the threatening weather, there were some who did not join the parade. The exercises in the Town hall began at 1:30 p. m. Rev. A. P. Pratt of Greenfield gave the address. There was a large attendance at the free dance in the evening.

Walter Peabody began working on the railroad as section hand this week. Richard Hassell from Northeastern University has been spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hassell.

Rolie Roberts, Harry Hassell and Harry Weston have been on a fishing trip to Somerset, Vt.

Result of the Annual Athol-Turners Falls Football Game

The result of the annual Athol-Turners Falls high school football clash, which was played at Unity Park Monday and which resulted in a 19 to 0 victory for the Lorden-coached boys, was an agreeable surprise to the followers of the team. The largest crowd by far to witness a football game here this season was on hand and the Athol rooters were present in force. The visitors were credited with having a powerful eleven and were slight favorites. The playing of the locals, which has been of a high standard this fall, with the exception of the Gardner game, gives every indication that the annual classic with Greenfield high will be one of the best games staged between these two rivals. This game will be played at Unity Park Thanksgiving day.

Annual Meeting and Election Mechanics Lodge of Masons

The annual meeting and election of Mechanics Lodge of Masons was held Tuesday night. District Deputy Grand Master Frank A. Yeaw of Greenfield, attended by District Deputy Grand Marshal Arthur B. Staples, visited the lodge to confer a Masonic veterans' medal on William D. Russell, the oldest living past master of the lodge. Mr. Russell was made a Mason in 1879 and the following year was elected master. Mr. Russell expressed the hope he might be the recipient of a "century medal," if such exists.

Reports of the officers were read and the following elected: Worshipful Master, Donald R. Smith; senior warden, Herbert M. Alvord; junior warden, William C. Schneider; treasurer, Norman P. Farwell; secretary, Clayton C. Fiske; board of Masonic relief, Walter H. Ray, Jr., George Starbuck, O. C. Gennell and Frank D. Jones; associate member, Arthur H. Porter. The installation exercises will be held Tuesday, Nov. 26, with A. H. Porter as installing officer, assisted by the past masters.

Regular Meeting of Valley Queen Rebekah Lodge

There was an unusually large attendance at the regular meeting of Valley Queen Rebekah Lodge Tuesday evening, which was marked by the installation exercises of a new noble grand, Mrs. Ellen Willis, who was elected and installed this fall as noble grand, was obliged to resign the office when she moved from town, and Mrs. Barbara Dascomb, a past noble grand, was installed to fill the vacancy. The exercises were in charge of Acting Deputy Mrs. Lillian M. Bitzer, past president of the Rebekah assembly, who was assisted by Acting Deputy Marshal Mrs. Alice Godni. Following the installation exercises, an entertainment and social hour was enjoyed. The committee in charge comprised Miss Tessie Houseman, Miss Florence Houseman, Mrs. Edith Carey and Mrs. Helen Spargue.

YES, THE EXPORT DEBENTURE PLAN

In the course of his address at the annual session of the National Grange, now being held at Seattle, Wash., National Master Louis J. Taber had this to say about the Export Debenture Plan:

"The Grange stands squarely behind its declaration of several years back, that no tariff adjustment will ever be fair to the farmer, or give him an equal chance with industry, that does not include the Export Debenture Plan, or some similar drawback method on the exportable surplus of the country; and the National Master of the Grange issues a stern challenge to tariff makers that nothing less than the inclusion of such a plan will ever satisfy the farmers of the United States."

And we still continue to believe that the Export Debenture plan is the outstanding and logical method of permitting agricultural interests to participate in such benefits as accrue from a protective tariff. But the farming interests must continue to agitate for it and lobby for it (just as the other interests do for the measures they desire) or they will have to continue to do without it. That is one of the penalties of self-government. You can't let George do it; you've got to do it yourself.

SOME SAFE AND SANE FACTS ABOUT THE COMING GREAT INDUSTRY OF COMMERCIAL AVIATION

We have been favored with some statistics (that we have every reason to believe to be accurate and reliable) upon the actual condition of aviation in this country, as of August 1, 1929, that should be helpful to those who (like this writer) have become rather fed up with a mass of general statements conveying but little idea of percentage.

The Department of Commerce lists 1,520 municipal, commercial, Government and auxiliary planes in operation.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce reports 2,854 commercial planes produced in the first half of 1929, as against 3,542 for the entire year of 1928; 3,275 commercial engines were produced for the first half of 1929, as against 1,850 for the entire year of 1928.

United States airway miles as of August 1, 1929, totalled 32,196 miles, as against 15,846 miles on August 1, 1928; during August, 1929, 701,538 pounds of air mail were carried, as against 419,047 in August, 1928. The value of exports, consisting of planes, engines and parts, totalled $6,469,870 for the first eight months of 1929, as against $3,664,723 for the entire year of 1928.

	Aug. 1, 1928	Aug. 1, 1929
Licensed and identified airplanes	8,000	3,200
Pilot's licenses in force	6,800	2,700
Students' permits granted per week (at rate of)	700	200

Commercial aviation has been slow in getting into its stride, as compared with across the ocean, but now that we have finally got going, it needs no prophet to foretell that we will soon lead the world in this great new industry.

Former Northfieldian Tells About The Nursing Job

Editor, Northfield Press:

A brief summary of the fields that are open to graduate nurses may be of interest to a number of your readers. Among ambitious girls who are considering the problem of a vacation, there are doubtless several in the community who would take up nursing as a profession if they knew the opportunities that would be open to them.

The trained graduate nurse has unequalled opportunities for both public and personal services to the sick and in the prevention of disease. She has a broad field of work which has been developed into a wide variety of interesting and specialized lines from which she may choose according to her inclination and qualifications. Among the positions open to the graduate are those associated with public health service: the visiting nurse, the social and mental hygiene nurse, the industrial nurse working chiefly in department stores and factories, and the community nurse. The army and navy nurses are assigned to army and navy hospitals both in the United States and in its possessions. Positions in hospitals offer an interesting choice, as superintendent of training school, director of educational department, supervisors of wards, operating room and clinics, anesthetists, laboratory technicians, etc.

In the home or hospital, the private duty nurse is responsible for the care of the invalid patient. The office nurse acts as assistant to the physician or surgeon. The resident nurse in boarding schools and colleges is responsible for the general supervision of the health of the students. In addition to these, there are many more fields of work, opening possibilities to every type of personality and interest. The salaries range from $85 to $300 per month, often with full maintenance, according to the positions and nurse's ability. For one who has decided to take up nursing, the selection of the right training school is of prime importance. The hospital training school should give a broad and complete foundation education from which the graduate may enter any of the specialized lines. The hospital from which I have just graduated offers exactly such a thorough education. It is called the United Hospital of Port Chester, New York, and is beautifully located in a suburb of New York city, near Long Island Sound.

Its course of instruction is under the direction of the Board of Regents of New York State and graduates are eligible to take examinations for the degree of R. N. from the University of New York. This degree from New York carries with it an important advantage. It entitles the nurse to practice in nearly every State in the Union without taking a State board examination. There are numerous other important advantages offered by this hospital. It is furnished with the finest and most up-to-date equipment that can be had. The doctors and nurses are leaders in their profession. Regardless of cost, every care is provided for its patients and every comfort for its nurses.

The nurses' home is a model of beauty and convenience. Each nurse has her own single room tastefully furnished. There are two large parlors, each containing piano, radio and victrola, bookcase of texts and fiction, and all the best magazines. The schedule of duties for student nurses makes generous provision for hours and days off duty and vacations. Unlike many hospitals, the student work at "United" is not a drudgery. Every procedure is for her education. Much of the work of the hospital is carried on by graduate nurses and hospital helpers, which arrangement leaves the student nurses free for strictly educational development. Six months of the course is given in the Philadelphia General hospital, which is a large institution of 3000 beds. This affiliation provides the nurse with a broad experience and outlook upon the field of service. Every year a scholarship is awarded at graduation to the student who desires to pursue advanced work in Teachers College, Columbia University.

The training at United hospital requires very little financial outlay; text books are provided and uniforms a small money allowance monthly, after the probation period. From the day she graduates, the nurse is in demand and she can look forward to an assured income as long as she is able to work.

Eatable Toys for the Children

THERE is no question but that children love sweet things. This is a perfectly natural craving to satisfy certain bodily needs. But unless one is watchful it is a craving that can easily become just a "sweet-eating" habit that will cause real trouble.

What could be better for rosy cheeked youngsters than a cookie jar on the pantry-shelf—a magical cookie jar that would never be empty. This is a tremendous help to keep the "eating-between-meals" habit within reasonable bounds. When the children come in from play, or from chilly weather it is there waiting for them. Lift the lid and there is that spicy, appetizing smell that is so much a part of home-made delicacies.

The following are a few suggestions for desserts that are simple and wholesome, and easy to make, but so flavorful and good that any child is sure to enjoy them. For molasses is what gives these dishes their chief charm. And what child doesn't love its luscious, brown goodness?

More Loxe to Thee

John 21:15, 16, 17. So when they had dined, Jesus said to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He said unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs. 18. He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep. 17. He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. John 13:15. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

Prayer:
Lord, it is my chief complaint,
That my love is weak and faint;
Yet I love Thee and adore;
O for grace to love Thee more.

Editorial

Across the ocean in our neighboring continent exists an association representing a factor to prevent war and restore world peace. Forty-six nations have joined and the rest are at the threshold waiting for a change in their conduct and morality.

Among these are the United States, who had rather meet her neighbors on the old basis of war than to have peace through trickery and intrigue. In a certain sense, it may be said that America goes right up to the League's doorstep and then stops.

In the covenant of the League one article provides for the protection against territorial aggression. There have been 11 cases of which only three have been submitted to the council. The remaining eight have led to war.

The League has been unfair to the joining nations. She has refused at one time to admit Germany, Russia and Mexico to membership, but at last Germany succeeded in entering.

We, as citizens of the United States, should support the decision of our countrymen and help to influence our duties on a fair and prosperous basis.

SUSIE PIERSON.

Odd Bits o' News

The Virgil class is reading Book Two. A commercial law test was given Friday.

Algebra six has finished studying logarithms and are now working on fractional and negative exponents.

Members of History six have just finished writing a 1500-word thesis on America's Refusal to join the League of Nations.

There has been a Latin club and a French circle organized. The president of the Latin club is Reginald Gove; vice-president, Richard Dodge; secretary and treasurer, Phyllis Delano.

The work was done in a very fine manner by the officers of the lodge. Previous to this, supper was served at 6:30 by Naomi Chapter, No. 36, O. E. S.

Short talks were made by various members of the order, after which Past Master Jesse W. Field called Brother Robert A. Weeks to the floor and presented him with a Shriners emblem from the members of the lodge in token of the appreciation of the order. Mr. Weeks responded by thanking the lodge in general.

Henry Clay Holland

Henry Clay Holland, 73 years old, died last night at 8 o'clock in his home on Main street. Mr. Holland had been in poor health for several years and death was due to a complication of diseases. He was born in this town April 6, 1856, one of three children of George W. and Martha Burbank Holland. He was educated in the public schools of Hinsdale and later attended Kimball Union academy. On May 10, 1882, he married Rose Ferrin of this town.

As a young man, the late Mr. Holland worked in his father's store and at one time owned a furniture and jewelry store in connection with the American Express, for whom he was an agent. From 1890 to 1919 he was associated in the hotel and livery business with his brother-in-law, the late William D. Ferrin. The hotel was known as Hotel Ashuelot. For a long period of years he also carried on a jobbing team. In 1903 he served this town as Representative. He was a member of Golden Rule Lodge, No. 77, A. F. and A. M., Hugh de Payne Commandery and a member of the Aleppo Shrine of Boston.

In addition to a wife and son, he leaves a granddaughter, Lois Washburn Holland, and two brothers, Charles A. Holland of this town and George W. Holland of Brattleboro.

Funeral services will be held today at the home, with Rev. Johnson A. Haines, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment will be in Pine Grove cemetery.

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

HAMLET, by William Shakespeare.
Any bookstore.

Lord Chesterfield's definition of a gentleman is that he was a man who never unintentionally offends anyone. There have been as many specifications of what constitutes culture as there are varying temperaments and varying degrees of literacy. But on one point I believe that almost everyone is agreed. A gentleman with a pretense of culture has a library of his own. Always! And a scholar's books are the tools of his trade, in constant use and standing on his shelves ready to his hand whenever he reaches out to consult them. I am reminded of what Ruskin once said, "Never borrow books. To be without books of your own is the abyss of penury. Don't endure it."

Well, we can't all live up to this high standard of excellence. But the habit of borrowing books and forgetting to return them which, alas, is all too common, has given me recently a most vivid spiritual experience. I have a set of Shakespeare, the gift of a wealthy relative, now deceased, specially bound in covers that cannot be duplicated except at considerable expense. Someone once borrowed from this set the Hamlet and the Lear and never returned them. And the result has been that for over 10 years, while I have read most of the plays of Shakespeare at reasonable intervals, when I have reached for Hamlet I have found that it was not there. And by the time that I got around to buy another copy, the impulse had passed.

About a month ago, therefore, I re-read Hamlet for the first time in over 10 years, though I have, of course, seen performances of the play. And I was surprised.

Coming to Hamlet with a mature mind and the knowledge of life and of people that comes of living, and reading it freshly for the first time after a lapse of years, is an amazing experience. To those of my readers who have had the good fortune to have overlooked this play in recent years, I strongly recommend that it be taken down from the shelves and re-read in the light of modern literature and modern psychology. You will be surprised.

Hamlet is one of those unfortunate men, mentioned in a previous review, whose emotional development has remained childlike while his mind has reached exceptional power. He suffers from a Freudian complex that makes him do and say and feel things that place him at war with his whole environment and act with cruelty to others. It is too long a subject to enter into in a brief review. But it seems to me that we have here, coming down to us from the days of Elizabethan England, a book that is the sort of thing that many of our modern writers are trying to do and doing badly.

Just a thought! But I suggest that, before some of our modern literature is condemned for the wrong thing, for freedom of speech, for discussing unpleasant situations and all the rest, that we re-read Hamlet. There, after all, is the standard of literature, admittedly one of the greatest works of art ever produced, and the protagonist of the play, the hero having just killed, by accident, the father of the girl who loves him, remarks to his mother, of all people, "I'll lug the guts into the neighbor room."
—Now I am not trying to say that I consider Hamlet improper. I am merely trying to suggest that sometimes we need to reaffirm our standards of the arts by testing our opinions against the actual work of the masters of the past before trying to judge the present.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Large, smooth tomatoes
1 cup boiled rice
1 cup cold chicken, chopped very fine
1 tablespoon of onion fried in a teaspoon of butter.
A little parsley, salt and pepper.
1 well-beaten egg.
Mix the rice, chicken, onions and Mix the rice, chicken, onion and parsley; bind with the egg. Season with salt and pepper, and bake in an oven 20 minutes. Cut out of the stem end of each tomato a piece as large as a dollar. Scoop out the inside with a spoon, not too deep, and fill this cavity with the stuffing. Broil pork chops nicely. Place on a hot platter, and arrange the stuffed tomatoes on the outside. Pour over the gravy from both dishes, and serve at once.

Orange Bread

1 yeast cake
1 cup lukewarm water
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 tablespoon melted lard
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
Grated rind two oranges
3 cups flour
Dissolve yeast in warm water; add egg well beaten, butter, lard, salt, sugar, grated orange rind, orange juice and flour. Beat until smooth, adding more flour, if necessary; knead until smooth and elastic; let rise till double its bulk; shape in double loaf; put in breadpan, let rise again to double its bulk, and bake one hour in moderate oven. This is delicious with orange marmalade for afternoon tea.

Enlarged Pores Show Neglect

By DORIS HALE
DuBarry Beauty Consultant

All the questions women ask me about beauty care, the query, "What shall I do about enlarged pores?" is asked more often than any other.

If your skin is oily—and that's the kind of skin that seems most inclined to large pores—there are gentle astringents that may be used to advantage after a soothing wash with a good soap in warm water. They tighten up the relaxed tissues; make the skin tingle. At night, when you remove the powder and dust of the day, be sure—very sure—that your face is clean before you go to bed.

If you are under par in health, your skin shows it, and large pores may result anyway. The only advice I can give you then is to see your doctor. He will suggest a diet and other regulations to build up your strength, so that your circulation and your skin will reflect improved health.

Keep the skin clean! That is the great preventive of enlarged pores. Chemists have spent years in the preparation of creams that do very much. Keep a jar of

FIFTH NEW ENGLAND CONFERENCE PROGRAM

Leaders in All Lines Will Study and Discuss Conditions and How to Improve Them

What New England communities can do to accelerate their own industrial growth will be discussed by development leaders and by business men at the Community Development Conference to be held in connection with the forthcoming Fifth New England Conference, "economic parliament" of six States, the New England Council, all-New England development organization. The conference will be held in Boston under the auspices of the Council, Nov. 21-22.

The community development conference, to be attended largely by Chamber of Commerce, railroad, gas, power, bank, real estate and newspaper executives, will be one of four group conferences on the second day's program, Nov. 22. Others will deal with industry, agriculture and recreational development.

Leading speakers and discussion leaders on the community development program will be J. E. Aldred of Aldred & Company, New York, on "What Makes Communities Grow"; Henry D. Sharpe, president of Brown & Sharpe Mfg. Company, Providence, on "Industrial Development Begins At Home"; Charles F. Weed, vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, on "What New England Has to Offer Industry"; and William J. Barrett, director of the division of manufactures, policyholders' service bureau, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York, on "New England's Industrial Development Trends."

Perhaps the greatest value to the hundreds of business men who attend the conference comes from the open discussion of problems arising in their own development efforts, a statement by the council pointed out. At this conference such questions will be open for discussion. Among them will be such as these:

How should a community organize its industrial development? What conditions must exist in a community before it can effectively promote that development? What are the communities' duties to its established industries? What methods have proved effective in attracting new industries? How do New England gains and losses of industry compare with those in other sections of the country? What are the present trends of industrial development in New England? How should New England communities compete with each other for new industries? How can the number of unnecessary cases of migration of industry from one New England community to another be reduced?

This will be the first time in New England that representatives of community organizations, railroads, power companies, gas companies, realtors, newspapers, retailers, telephone companies, manufacturing companies and all others interested in the industrial development of New England communities have had the opportunity to meet together to discuss the fundamentals of community development so necessary to maintain New England's prosperity.

CALLS ON RED CROSS INCREASE; RESPONSE TO ROLL CALL URGED

Society's Activities Reach Millions Each Year—Chairman Payne Asks Generous Support in Membership.

Disaster relief work, service to disabled veterans and their families, public health work and its many other activities caused expenditures of $11,064,000 by the American Red Cross for the year ended June 30, 1929, according to the annual report of the organization.

This work by the Red Cross is supported by the annual Roll Call for members, which is held from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28.

Directing attention to the heavy expenditures by the Red Cross during the past year, and to the fact that the organization was called upon for assistance in 120 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions, Judge John Barton Payne, the chairman, said:

"The Red Cross is a volunteer society, supported by its membership, and belongs to all of the citizens. While it is a semi-governmental agency in that the President of the United States is its president, and one third of its governing board are representatives of Government departments, yet it receives no financial support from the Government."
"Funds for our work for war veterans and their families, for carrying on disaster relief, for our varied health activities, the life saving and first aid work and our many other activities, all are derived from the membership fee. The public is asked only once each year—at the Annual Roll Call—to join in this support of the Red Cross."

The Red Cross expended an average of $936,000 per year in the past seven years, in disaster relief work from its own treasury, statements show. The work for world war veterans also has caused heavy expenditures.

Arthur E. Yeaw

Arthur E. Yeaw, 75, one of six children of Capt. Truman and Aurilla Weatherhead Yeaw, passed away last Sunday night in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Vivier, in Athol, Mass., where he went on the previous Wednesday for a few days' visit. He was taken ill Thursday with pneumonia. His condition became serious and his wife was called Saturday. Mr. Yeaw was born June 30, 1854, on the farm in Guilford, where he made his home most of his life. In 1881, he married Miss Lucy Armstrong, who died in 1883. In July, 1888, he married Miss Abbie Kelsey and they lived in Brattleboro for about four years, where Mr. Yeaw worked for the Carpenter Organ Co. and Robert Taylor's trucking company. They then moved to Guilford, where they have since made their home on the place in Weatherhead Hollow, where he was born.

Besides his wife, he leaves a daughter, Hazel, wife of Ernest Vivier, of Athol, Mass., and a son, Warren, who lives at home, and one grandchild, Warren, Jr., and also a brother, Lewis Yeaw, of Brattleboro.

Cobb is president of the union, which was organized last June, and she has already secured 26 members and has an enthusiastic society. Mrs. Cobb was ill in bed Tuesday, but held the meeting, nevertheless, in her chamber.

Regular Monthly meeting of North Church Sunday School

A group of 27 officers and teachers of the North Church Sunday school held their regular monthly meeting last Monday evening. Supper was served at 6.30. After a devotional period, Mrs. Makepeace and Prof. Morse gave brief reviews of two new books on worship in the Sunday school.

Election of officers for 1930 resulted in Miss Dorothy Newton being elected treasurer, Mrs. Pattison, assistant superintendent of the junior school, and Harry R. James, Mrs. Vorce and Clifford Field, the superintendent's cabinet.

The Sunday school has adopted the slogan: "One Hundred Per Cent Sunday School Homes," which means every member of the family enrolled either in the Cradle Roll, the regular school or the home department.

Mrs. Vorce gave a report of the recent Massachusetts Religious Education convention, which she attended as delegate. Plans were laid for Thanksgiving and Christmas programs. Next meeting, Monday, Dec. 9.

"I can tell you the score of the game before it starts."

"What is it?"

"Nothing to nothing before it starts."

Local W. C. T. U.

The local W. C. T. U. is planning for a fine program for its next meeting on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 20, at the vestry of the Congregational church. This will be an open meeting and the unions of Greenfield, Orange and Mt. Hermon are to be special guests. There will be refreshments for the social hour, in charge of Mrs. Carl Mason.

Northfield Grange

The Northfield Grange worked the third and fourth degrees upon several candidates at the meeting, last Tuesday evening; the ladies' degree team took charge of the former, while the officers administered the latter. There were visiting grangers from Bernardston and Greenfield. Light refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Special Meeting of Legion Post on Friday Evening

The Haven H. Spencer Post, No. 179, American Legion, will hold a special meeting at 7.30 Friday evening, Nov. 15, on the subject of membership. This post has recently received a citation of an honor post of the American Legion.
